Group Process in Developmentally-Focused Parent/Infant Groups

Description: Martha Edwards, Ph.D., creator of the Bright Beginnings Parent-Child Program at the Ackerman Institute, will describe a parenting program in which elements of parent-child interaction and group discussion and support are integrated. Dr. Edwards will describe the Parenting Processes Model on which Bright Beginnings is based. Then the group will view and discuss videotapes of Bright Beginnings groups, focusing on the elements of group process and the implications it has for training and supervision.

Learning Objectives:

Participants will:

1. understand the Parenting Processes Model on which the Bright Beginnings program is based.
2. be able to track group process in Bright Beginnings videotapes of groups.
3. identify areas and types of training and supervision necessary to improve facilitators' group work skills.
