Both Yalom and Ormont, among others, worked from the very first group meeting to direct the focus on member's interpersonal communication. In this demonstration group, leader will facilitate cutting edge techniques on fostering member to member dialogue and emotional communication.

Learning Objectives:

Participants will be able to:

1. Cite three ways of directing group members to member communication
2. Discuss two ways of encouraging emotional communication between members
3. Describe two ways in which bridging together of members of similar and different views occurred.
